

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An apparatus and method for identifying integrated circuit chips or dice on a semiconductor wafer. Each chip comprises a ring oscillator having a characteristic oscillating frequency different from the oscillating frequency of the ring oscillators of other chips on the same wafer. Each chip can be associated with various attributes of the wafer on which it was formed and the process steps to which it was subjected using the ring oscillator frequency.